

Commissionaires responding to increasing property crime in Regina

BY COMMISSIONAIRES SOUTH SASKATCHEWAN DIVISION

Police-reported crime statistics, as measured by the Crime Severity Index and released by Statistics Canada on July 25, 2024, indicate Saskatchewan continues to have one of the highest crime rates and crime severity indexes in the country.

The Regina Police Service are addressing this through several initiatives, most notably, the recent implementation of a new downtown Alternative Response Officer (ARO) program to create a safer and more welcoming downtown core. Accordingly, the Commissionaires, South Saskatchewan Division, are experiencing a higher demand for their security services than ever before and are applying technology, increased resources and innovative solutions to meet the challenge of protecting people, property and information.

"Our division of Commissionaires has been owned and operated out of Regina since 1948," said Commissionaires CEO Dean Rae. "No one has better expertise and awareness of the security context facing Saskatchewan businesses today. We hear from businesses every day and work to address their concerns to bring their workers peace of mind, as we continue to innovate and sophisticate how we meet their needs."

Today, Commissionaires South Saskatchewan has more than 600 employees serving Regina, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, Yorkton and more. From security guards at reception counters, potash mines and industrial sites, to mobile patrols, alarm response, camera monitoring and secure courier service, the organization continues to serve while still being the only non-profit security organization in North America.
